

This is my opinion on if kids should or should not be allowed to buy junk food or not. I think that kids should be able to buy junk food because if kids earn their own money they can spend it on whatever they want! I think they are able to buy junk food because it would take away the fun from holidays. If children believe they are being denied they will want it more.

My second reason why kids should be able to buy junk food is because they earn their own money then they can spend it on whatever they want. Also some people argue that banning the sale of junk food to kids won't encourage them to eat healthier foods.

My third reason kids should be able to buy junk food is that it is bad for business because a lot of stores sell junk food. We have to teach kids how to think not what to think.

Kids can be responsible and buy whatever they want even if it's junk food.
